

THE CONNEMARA CASTLE

Tucked in the heart of Connemara's grace,
A castle with a history to embrace,
Its walls rise by the river's bend,
A place where fairy tales never end.

Ballynahinch, so ancient and strong,
With stories that have been told so long,
Of Pirate Queens, and prince's dreams,
Where the river's laughter softly gleams.

The castle's walls, so rugged and wide,
Hide secrets of the past inside,
With stones that whisper tales of old,
And stories waiting to be told.

The woods around are deep and green,
A fairytale forest, like you've never seen,
Where wild creatures live and crawl,
In Ballynahinch, they all stand tall.

In Connemara's beauty, it does reside,
With stories and magic by its side,
Ballynahinch Castle, a gem so rare,
In Ireland's heart, a place to care.
